MIDEAST LEADERS reportedly are all seeking peace, but repeated border incidents and terrorist attacks have made the situation extremely dangerous for Israel and her Arab neighbors. In top row, from the left, are Prime Minister Levi Eshkol of Israel; Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan; and Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser. In bottom row, same order, are President Ahmed Hassan al-Bakr, Iraq; King Hussein of Jordan; and Lebanon's Premier Abdullah Yafi.

IT'S A NO-NO, but that milk is irresistible. Caught in Tanzania, East Africa, the bushbaby was tamed for a movie role and then became a pet for 14-year-old English actress Margaret Brooks.

One College Prepares to Reopen

Queens College, one of a half dozen divisions of the City University of New York, prepared to reopen today after a two-day shutdown that followed the violent takeover of some offices by Negro and Puerto Rican students.

A spokesman said, "We really don't know what will happen. We're just hopeful." About 10 per cent of the 25,000 students are nonwhite.

Negro students remained in control of vital centers of two Eastern schools: Brandeis University at Waltham, Mass., and Swarthmore College, just outside of Philadelphia.

On the West Coast, police arrested 293 students peacefully in a second day of confrontation Thursday at San Fernando Valley State College in Northridge, Calif. At newly opened Southwestern College 18 persons were arrested on charges of interfering with school operations. At East Los Angeles College 95 sheriff's deputies moved in to restore order after students took over a student center and one other building.

A spokesman said, "We really hope, Negro students burned an effigy of a speech teacher but the affair broke up without police being called.

At San Francisco State College, police broke up a demonstration after arresting five students and pushing a crowd of 500 away from the college entrance. Striking members of the American Federation of Teachers also defied a court order and resumed picketing but kept clear of students demonstrators.

New disorders erupted in Tokyo Friday when radical left-wing students attempted to invade a stadium where about 2,500 students met in a move to end a year-long strike at Tokyo University. Some 3,000 police surrounding the stadium used tear gas to repel the invaders who fought with rocks and wooden staves. About 3,000 riot police broke up clashes between factions on the university campus Thursday night. More than 100 students were reported injured.

Most of those involved in U.S. campus disorders were Negro students demanding changes in administration and policy of the colleges.

Militant students at San Fernando gathered for a teach-in, defying a state of emergency declared early Thursday by acting President Delmar T. Oviatt. It banned gatherings and permitted only faculty, students and staff members on the campus.

Copter Crash Kills News Broadcaster

By LOUISE COOK

NEW YORK (AP) - A relief helicopter pilot for a radio station was killed Friday afternoon when his craft crashed into an apartment building while he was in the middle of a live traffic broadcast.

The man he was subbing for said later, "I wish to hell it had been me. He's got a wife and two kids."

Fire broke out in the three-story Queens building which was hit and spread to an adjacent building, but there was only one minor injury.

The accident occurred only a few seconds after Frank McDermott, 37, went on the air for a one-minute report on rush-hour traffic conditions. The radio station, WOR, said McDermott complained about rough flying weather, then broke off abruptly, saying, "Take it back, John." He was speaking to John Scott in the studio.

McDermott, a former Army pilot who also worked for a construction firm, was filling in for Fred Feldman, known as "Fearless Freddie," who hired him for the station about six years ago.

Feldman said, "I feel the way I did about some friends in the service who got it."

Fire officials said the helicopter, a two-seat Bell 47C2 in which McDermott was flying alone, went through the roof and into the apartment on the top floor of the building. Police said McDermott jumped or fell from the craft into a yard across the street from the struck building.

The crash came on the same day the city was honoring the three Apollo 8 astronauts who circled the moon.

The attractive 23-year-old Harvard graduate student was found beaten to death in her apartment Tuesday.

Reason complained Thursday of unspecified inaccuracies in news accounts of the investigation.

Meanwhile, Prof. Stephen Williams, chairman of the anthropology department at Harvard, refused to go along with a theory that the killer performed an ancient burial ritual over Miss Britton's body.

Traces of red ochre were found on Miss Britton's body and on the walls and ceilings of her bedroom.

Williams said the substance has any number of "mundane uses," including influence of coloring effects in art, and can be purchased cheaply at most hardware stores.

"It has been used by primitive people all over the world from time immemorial, for everything from decorating pottery to painting their faces to burying their dead," he said.

"Its use goes back 30,000 years and it is still in use in some countries," Williams said.

"But I want to emphasize that its use in burial rites is not specific to any place or time."

Williams said he agreed with other experts that the substance could have been used as a coloring agent by Miss Britton, who was an amateur painter.

Police gave routine lie detector tests to James H. Humphries, 27, a friend of the victim, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Mitchell, both 25, close friend and neighbors of Miss Britton.

Everyone Wants to Be a Winner, It's Not Inborn But Acquired

By MARY ANITA LASETER

Star Feature Writer

Everyone wants to be a winner, to succeed, to be No. 1. It's part of our current values, standards, and way of life. It is not inborn, but we acquire it quickly.

That is why an article in the "Presbyterian Survey" entitled "Why Fear Failure?" left us startled, angry, and thoughtful - in that order. The author, James E. Sewell, a native of Russellville, was living in Northwood, N.C., at the time he wrote it but now resides in Hope.

According to him, the crucifixion was failure's finest hour! Though it seemed total, abject, and final at first, the fact is the story didn't end there. "It is around the corner from failure that Resurrection waits to be discovered," he wrote. In this respect he was likening Resurrection to real success.

He sounded like the "I'd rather be right - than President" man when he declared, "I'd rather be a right loser than a wrong winner." Unfortunately, this philosophy is too seldom heard in the present day, but if we keep our eyes and ears open there are still those among us who aren't afraid to express such thoughts.

Personally, we like the idea of winning. It's much more fun than losing. Of course, we don't want to win at the high expense of others or so that the other fellow is injured or left in want. But the pleasant sensation of a nicely won or achieved success can hardly be equalled.

There is something to say for the Gospel of Failure, though, which presents an enormous sense of freedom, puts honesty above diplomacy, conscience above acceptability, sincerity above security.

There is one sure thing about failure - everyone will experience it, in some degree, sometime in his life. It's how that person reacts, or "takes it," that governs the Success of his Failure.

That may sound like double-talk, but it is not. If we can turn Failure into Triumph - as Christ did, ultimately - then, we have Success. The question, Why Fear Failure, then takes on new meaning, for it presents a challenge to each of us.

The latest weekly casualty bill in the battle area disclosed that since the talks started, 7,693 American servicemen have been killed in action. And since South Vietnam's delegation left for Paris Dec. 7 for a hoped-for beginning of expanded negotiations, 587 Americans have died.

A familiar name reappeared in news of the Vietnam peace talks: Henry Cabot Lodge. Currently ambassador to Bonn, Lodge served twice as ambassador to Saigon and has now been named by President - elect Richard M. Nixon as chief U.S. negotiator at the Paris talks. He will succeed W. Averell Harriman on Jan. 20, the day Nixon is inaugurated.

In other Nixon appointments, Secretary of Defense-designate Melvin R. Laird named a defeated governor, a space expert and an incumbent Army secretary to be the civilian bosses of the three armed services, Rhode Island Gov. John H. Chafee, who lost a re-election bid last November, was named secretary of the navy; Dr. Robert Seamans Jr. takes over as head of the Air Force, and Stanley Resor remains as Secretary of the Army.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, a leading critic of the Vietnam war, surrendered his seat on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to one of the chief defenders of the administration's Vietnam policies, Sen. Gale McGee of Wyoming.

Sweden became the first Western country to extend diplomatic recognition to North Vietnam.

Outer space was back in the earthly news. President Johnson led the nation's official tribute to the Apollo 8 astronauts, hailing them as "history's boldest explorers" and presenting the three with Distinguished Service Medals of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Air Force Col. Frank Borman, commander of the moon - gridding Apollo 8 flight, Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr. and Air Force Lt. Col. William A. Anders then received standing ovations from a joint meeting of Congress, where Borman described the mission as "a triumph of mankind."

ON Friday, the astronauts were honored with a traditional ticker tape parade in New York. The space agency named the three astronauts who will have the first chance of landing on the moon: Neil Armstrong, a civilian, Air Force Lt. Col. Michael Collins and Air Force Col. Edwin A. Aldrin, all space veterans. Armstrong was named Apollo 11 commander, Collins command pilot and Aldrin lunar module pilot for the flight, which may be launched in July.

Meanwhile, the Soviet Union launched an unmanned space probe toward Venus, to attempt a soft landing on the dark side of the planet. Two Soviet spacecraft - Venus 5 and Venus 6 - will operate together, with Venus 5, launched five days earlier, to try landing on another part of the planet.

Six months ago, the United States and North Vietnam started preliminary peace talks in an effort to find a way to end the war which has become America's longest. No real progress has been made in the negotiations since, with the talks taken up with propaganda pronouncements and wrangling over procedure.

The latest weekly casualty bill in the battle area disclosed that since the talks started, 7,693 American servicemen have been killed in action. And since South Vietnam's delegation left for Paris Dec. 7 for a hoped-for beginning of expanded negotiations, 587 Americans have died.

Can Sign Name After 55 Years

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Historian Will Durant's wife of 55 years, authoress Ariel, finally can sign her name legally.

Until a court proceeding Thursday she had been Ida for all her 70 years, at least when she signed contracts and legal papers. The two have co-authored several books.

Once her husband was her teacher and "I was his most troublesome mischiefmaker, so he called me Ariel," she said, explaining that Shakespeare, in his play "The Tempest" named a sprite "Ariel."

Stein's Art to Museum

NEW YORK (AP) - Five persons who recently acquired Gertrude Stein's famous art collection are going to give part of it to the Museum of Modern Art. The gift will be from David Rockefeller, president of the Chase Manhattan Bank and chairman of the museum's board of trustees; publisher John Hay Whitney, a vice chairman; William S. Paley, trustees' president and chairman of the board of the Columbia Broadcasting System; New York banker Andre Meyer, a patron.

Miss Stein's collection, which she acquired early in the century, was composed of 38 works by Pablo Picasso and nine by Juan Gris.

They were purchased from the heirs of Miss Stein who died in 1946.

Nixon Planning Contest for Irish Setter

By WALTER R. MEARS

Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) - President-elect Nixon is thinking of having a contest to find a good Irish name for the red setter he has not yet received as a birthday present.

The setter is a present from Nixon's staff for his 56th birthday, but is not to be purchased until after the Jan. 20 inauguration.

Thursday, on Nixon's birthday, his assistants gave him a small bronze statue of an Irish setter.

In Northampton, Mass., Thursday night, Nixon remarked at a family birthday party that he might have some kind of competition to find an appropriate name for the dog.

Nixon once had a red Irish setter, but that was before World War II. Its name was King.

Ronald L. Ziegler, Nixon's press spokesman, announced Thursday that the staff was giving him another dog of that breed.

"We don't have a name yet. Mr. Nixon wants to name the dog and judge its personality," Ziegler said. It wasn't until later that Bruce Wehelen, another Nixon press aide, reported the President-elect's mention of a dog-naming contest.

Dixon Has No Intention of Resigning

WASHINGTON (AP) - Paul Rand Dixon says he has no intention of resigning the chairmanship of the Federal Trade Commission as urged by law students who did a critical study of the agency under the direction of Ralph Nader.

At a news conference Thursday, Dixon said the report calling for his resignation is "a hysterical, antibusiness diatribe and a scurrilous, untruthful attack."

The report was issued Sunday after a summer-long investigation of the FTC. The students were organized by Nader, a critic of the auto industry and government agencies.

Nader could not be reached for comment on Dixon's rebuttal.

Among the accusations of the students was one that Dixon personally suppressed a report criticizing auto manufacturers for their warranty practices. Dixon called this a "blatant lie."

Gloria DeHaven Seeks Divorce

MIAMI (AP) - Actress Gloria DeHaven and Richard Flacher have divorced for a second time.

Their second marriage ended Thursday when Flacher, a Florida state representative and auto dealer, won a divorce on a counter-claim of extreme cruelty. He said Miss DeHaven told him she was going on the road with a musical, "Golden Boy," and would not return to Miami.

Miss DeHaven, who lives in New York, did not appear in court. Flacher agreed to pay $499 a month alimony and $400 a month support for their two children, Harry, 9, and

REMINGTON REMEMBERED

Artist Frederic Remington lived through, observed and recorded, in paintings, drawings and sculptures, the last stages of the "Old West."

He was born in Canton, New York, in 1861. By the time he died in 1909, he had shared first-hand the adventures and life of action of soldiers, Indians and cowpokes—"the wild riders and the vacant lands." His representations of this world and era are prized today not only for their superb craftsmanship but also because they show a unique historical record of outstanding liveliness, accuracy and sympathy.

Few artists have equalled Remington in his self-taught ability to document on canvas, or in bronze, the mood and action of the west's horse and rider. And his goal was a fusion of fine art and documentary representation.

His work is now more sought after by museums and collectors than that of any other American artist. Out in Cody, Wyoming, the Whitney Gallery of Western Art, a wing of the Buffalo Bill Historical Center, displays a magnificent collection of his works and personal possessions, including the entire contents of his studio at the time of Remington's death. Other museums such as the Amon Carter Museum in Fort Worth and the Thomas Gilcrease Museum in Tulsa, Okla., feature Remington's efforts.

Another valuable collection of Remington's art graces the walls of the famous "21" restaurant in mid-town Manhattan. Originally collected by the late Jack Kriendler, the Remington documentaries are now the devoted interest of his brother, "21" host-owner Peter Kriendler, himself a trustee of the Buffalo Bill Historical Center. Shown on this page are some of Remington's works from the collection.

THE NATIONAL REPORT ON WHAT'S HAPPENING

CALORIE CUTBACK: Food and Nutrition Board of National Research Council has recommended a reduction of 100 calories daily (2,800 from 2,900) for the "reference male" (22 years old, 154 pounds, moderately active). Same 100-calorie reduction (2,000 from 2,100) for the reference woman (22 years old and 128 pounds). The Food and Nutrition Board stressed that by age 22 physical maturity has usually been reached and that further growth is usually fat.

JUNIOR COLLEGES CONTINUE TO GROW: Specialized two-year training in subjects ranging from auto body repair to police administration, telecommunications (technical skills in radio and TV), chef management, ambulance technology and food marketing and transportation. The specialized interest idea continues to expand. A real aim seems to be technical education at the bachelor of science level. The American Association of Junior Colleges is doing a tremendous job of organizing and reporting, too.

SEEDS OF DESTRUCTION? Carnegie Commission on Higher Education appeals to federal government to enact a civilian "bill of educational rights" and give one million needy students scholarships over the next eight years. The commission's report is aimed at the new administration and the yearly $3.45 billion worth of federal aid now being allocated. Guess in Washington is that the report will be treated as "egg head" by Congress. The fear, not unfounded, that scholarships to the "needy-needy" aren't the answer to spending a recommended $13 billion by 1976. Many law makers favor direct support for more "community colleges" . . . formerly junior colleges. Hear here, hear!

BANKING ON TEENS: Banks and savings and loans hot after teen dollars. Savings and loan people advertising in young-oriented fashion publications. Pop art ads, posters and sweatshirts being used by some "straight" banks to promote their credit cards. The basic approach is responsibility with the hope that the exposure will leave "the establishment" in a shiny light.

DUKE IT OUT: Norwegian scientists believe we have to develop new ways of thinking about conflict and life. Propose a new science called "conflictology" to teach the idea of conflict consciousness in schools. (Some beleaguered administrators might be tempted to send them a bumper sticker . . . School used to be fun. Now it's a riot!) No doubt though, the abnormal emphasis on non-physical violence as a condition of "being civilized" poses an obvious area of personal conflict. Will the teachers and professors of "conflictology" be doves or hawks? Some of today's students must already have their masters degrees!

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

LET SLEEPING SKELETONS LIE

Dear Helen: I'm an average teen with just one problem. Ever since I can remember I've never seen anyone from my mother's side of the family. Cousins, parents, no one. She never talks about them—it's as if they never existed. I've only known her sister, whom I'm very close to. I'd ask HER, but I'm afraid she wouldn't tell me either. When I was younger, I'd ask my mother what her name was before she married, and she'd say, "I'll tell you later," but later never came.

Helen, don't I have a right to know about my mother's childhood, my maternal grandparents, where they lived? We don't even have pictures of her when she was a child. My father acts touchy on the subject too. I love my parents very much and we get along fine. Why won't they share this secret with me? Is there anything I can do to find out without coming right out and asking?—SIMONE

Dear Simone: Sometimes it's best to let sleeping family skeletons lie. Perhaps your mother's childhood was so miserable that she prefers living in the present, without memories. If you stir them up, with too many questions, you may begin a "recall" that could upset her present happy life.

Why not discuss this with your father? I'm sure he'll level with you.—H.

Dear Helen: I disagree 100 percent with "Outdated" who thinks a man should keep himself pure if he expects chastity in his girl. I'm 30 who had the same ideas. "Let the past be forgotten."

My fiancée was a junior James

Bond, but he hasn't looked at a girl since he met me. I think his youthful flirtations (that's all they were) have made him more understanding of the wacky working of female emotions. He is certainly sensitive to my every mood. I haven't been a saint, so I can't blame him for following hard-to-control emotions with willing girls.—ME

Dear Helen: Do you have any faith in the moral standards of today's young men? If so, why were your comments to "Outdated Virgin" so discouraging? There are many young men willing to wait, and those men are looking for girls willing to wait. I am one of them—and I found my girl!—FRED as she. He feels that partaking of the goodies before marriage is a sin greater than murder. He seems to feel that on your wedding night things work out perfectly and being married cures all ignorance. Can you imagine the amount of confusion if two people of this type marry? I and most of my fellow females feel that one partner should be informed mentally and physically in the art of love because love is the most beautiful thing one can experience and it shouldn't be bungled. The basic knowledge must be gained preferably by a young man having "been around" before the big step of marriage.

Maybe "Outdated" would like to meet my ex-boyfriend. After talking with him about the physical side of marriage, I found him quite inadequate in his attitudes and figured our relationship would never work out.—MISS E.E.G.

Cut Your Own Taxes

By RAY DE CRANE

NEA Publications

"More" is the byword of our times. The worker demands more wages, arguing that everything he buys costs him more.

Corporations seek more profits than before; their stockholders constantly demand improvement over the past year's performance.

Government is not to be outdone. At all levels—city, county, state and federal—the cry is for more taxes.

You felt the first effects of this year's cry for more on the first day of the new year. On Jan. 1, 1969, your Social Security taxes went up. A year ago you were assessed at the rate of 4.4 per cent on the first $7,800 of earnings. This year's rate: 4.8 per cent.

But the big blow is still ahead. When you file your federal income tax return between now and April 15 you will receive the full effect of that 10 per cent surcharge that was in the headlines most of last year. As everyone knows by now, the surcharge is a reality.

It hit you first in mid-July when your withholding deductions from pay checks were increased because of the surcharge. You will find when you complete your tax return that even the increased deductions were not enough.

Congress made the surcharge retroactive to last April 1. But the increased withholding didn't begin until July 15. That three and a half month's lag will have to be made up when you file this year's tax return.

If you have been in the habit of paying an additional sum when you file your return you'll pay more this year.

Never before has it been so advisable to be fully informed on your rights so that you can claim every possible deduction, thereby reducing your tax to the lowest level possible. Tax savings offer you the best savings possible, since they represent after-tax money. A $1 savings on your income tax return is worth an additional $1.25 or more in earned income on which a tax is still due.

In this series of articles, of which this is the first, simple, easy-to-understand instructions will be given designed to help you simplify your tax chore and save money in the process.

Clip and save them for the valuable assistance they will offer when you sit down to complete your own return.

NEXT: A choice of three forms.

The government expects you to take advantage of every legal income tax deduction and exclusion. Check yourself. Send name, address and $1 for the 1969 "CUT YOUR OWN TAXES" book. For the first time, it offers a bonus of low-cost computer assistance with your tax. Send name, address and $1 to "Cut Your Own Taxes," c/o (name newspaper), P.O. Box 489, Dept. (first three digits your Zip No.). Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Mrs. Onassis Stops Pension

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Aristotle Onassis has stopped receiving her $10,000-a-year presidential widow's pension at her own request.

The Treasury said Wednesday that the widow of President John F. Kennedy asked in a letter in late October that the pension end as of Oct. 1. She married Onassis, the Greek millionaire, on Oct. 20.

Legal authorities had disagreed over whether a presidential widow should continue to receive the pension after her remarriage.

O'Brien Jones Investment Firm

NEW YORK (AP) — Lawrence F. O'Brien, who announced this week his resignation as Democratic national chairman, has been named president of McDonnell & Co., Inc., a New York investment banking firm.

O'Brien was an adviser to President Kennedy and Johnson and served as postmaster general. His appointment to the new position was announced Wednesday by T. Murray McDonnell, president and chairman of the 64-year-old firm. McDonnell will remain as company chairman.

Mantle Collapses, Child Killed

BELOIT, Wis. (AP) — The mantle and fireplace in the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Wong collapsed Thursday, killing their 6-year-old son Michael.

The Wongs moved into their home last Saturday.

Police Capt. James Mattison said the child was alone in the room when the mantle and about ten rows of bricks fell. The boy was stuck on the head by several bricks, Mattison said. Cause of the collapse was not determined.

New Leg Make-up

The new leg make-up that simulates various degrees of tan should be very popular this summer, especially when the temperatures soar into the clammy high 80s. On a sticky, hot day bare legs or open-work stockings certainly feel cooler.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Inhaling Asbestos Dust May Cause Lung Cancer

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Because of the surprisingly varied uses to which asbestos has been put, there is a growing interest among doctors in the lung disease called asbestosis. This is one of a group of diseases of the lungs caused by the inhalation of various dusts. In asbestosis, the inhalation of asbestos dust over a period of years causes permanent deposits in the lungs of needlelike asbestos crystals. The irritation they produce is mechanical rather than chemical and the result is fibrosis or scarring of the lungs.

This in itself can be serious, but even more serious is the fact that the victims have a death rate from lung cancer eight times that of men who are not exposed to the dust. Their death rate from cancer of the digestive tract is also higher than the expected rate. A further study revealed that among asbestos workers, those who smoke cigarettes have a death rate from lung cancer 92 times as great as that of men who neither smoke nor work with asbestos.

In addition to asbestos weavers, those in danger include auto mechanics, brake manufacturers, carpenters, clutch manufacturers, filter makers, manufacturers of floor tiling, insulators, miners, roofers, shingle makers, shipbuilders and steam fitters. Even "sidewalk engineers" who enjoy watching new skyscrapers go up are at some risk because appreciable amounts of asbestos, though not visible to the naked eye, have been shown to be present in the surrounding air at these locations. And children are not immune to the danger. Some kindergartens have been known to supply raw asbestos for tots to mix with water to make "dough."

Unlike the usual case of tuberculosis, the lesions caused by the inhalation of dust are not localized but are diffused throughout the

Here is one of the silliest hands of 1968. The game was a match point game and at the first table North and South were playing a convention in which the double of a weak two bid showed a no-trump type of hand with a guaranteed stopper in the suit doubled. West opened a weak two spades. North doubled and South jumped to three no-trump.

Bobcats Are Lashed by Camden Five

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer

Consistently outwheeled and outbounced, the Hope Bobcats took a 61-48 lashing from the Camden Lincoln Tigers in the opening 4-A West game for each school last night at Camden. Lincoln won it on depth, as the Tigers had six players to pick up at least four fouls, Hope couldn't maneuver around the basket, and thus could not make up the difference in a fourth-quarter rally.

In the first quarter the Bobcats took it slow and easy, and successfully held the Lincoln shooters down. When the period ended the Cats led 13-10, and a few minutes later Hope boasted of a 20-15 edge.

Forty seconds later it was 20-20, and Lincoln gained command which it held the remainder of the game. A late run put the Tigers on top 34-29 at the half, after having worked up a seven-point bulge.

Hope's chance came when Lincoln went stone cold in third stanza with only 10 points, but the Bobcats could not capitalize. Only one field goal and four free shots were produced by the locals, and the Tigers carried a 44-35 lead into the final period.

After falling behind 46-35 the Cats pulled to within six points on two separate occasions, but both times no one could convert that one more field goal to get closer. Finally Lincoln broke loose with a 7-0 spread at the end of the 61-48. The statistics appear in the box score at the bottom of this article.

In the other game the Hope Bobkittens threw the ball away 17 times and consequently fell to the Lincoln Tiger Cubs 53-47. The Kittens led by as much as 18-11 early in the second quarter, before turnovers and bad passes reversed the count. Trailing 24-19 at halftime, Coach Jim Jordan's boys fought back to regain the lead before trailing 36-35 at the three quarter mark.

Lincoln then pulled to a 46-37 edge, which the Bobkittens cut to three points before the closing six-point deficit.

Tonight the Bobcats resume 4-A Western Division competition by hosting the Texarkana Washington Lions at Jones Field House with a 7:30 p.m. tipoff. In the prelin the Hope 7th and 8th grades will play at 6:30.

Boston Has Won Last Five in a Row

Boston's hard-charging Bruins haven't been beaten in their last dozen games, have won five in a row — and still can't catch those elusive Montreal Canadiens.

Boston scored its fifth consecutive victory with a 3-2 decision over Toronto Thursday night, and still trails Montreal by three points in the National Hockey League's Eastern Division.

Offense

Flanker

Little Jimmy Orr's old and brittle and couldn't beat his mother across the street. All he can do is get open, beat the other guy. Also beat out Ray Perkins for job. Averaged 25.6 yards per catch, tops in NFL.

Edge: Jets

Split End

Last half of season found Willie Richardson performing like All-Pro. Topped club in TD catches with eight. Good outside, inside moves and tops on Colts for speed. A six-year man at his peak.

Edge: Even

Quarterback

How do you knock guy who's keeping Johnny Unitas on bench? Earl Morrall's biggest contribution to Colts was giving them concept of balance between run, pass. Still some skeptics about his ability under pressure.

Edge: Jets

Fullback

Early in career, Jerry Hill broke leg twice. He's had broken arm, broken hand. This year hurt knee. But when Colts need blocking inside or out. This year he's and hard yardage, he's the man. A tough, squat plugger who won't break for long run.

Edge: Jets

Halfback

Tom Matte's Mr. Utility. Doesn't do anything super. But puts points on scoreboard. Used to be known as soft runner. But not anymore. QB experience helps his savvy, makes him pass-run option threat.

Edge: Colts

Tight End

Closest thing to super-star on starless Colts is John Mackey. Perennially leading receiver, tough guy to haul down in open field. Overlooked in process is his great blocking. A player without weakness.

Left Tackle

Efficient, studious, dedicated—that's Bob Vogel. Not as big (240) as some tackles, not as fast as others. But ex-Olio Stater always grades out well, makes no mistakes. Has been starter all six seasons as pro.

Edge: Colts

Right Tackle

Couple of years ago, Sam Ball didn't show balance to hold off the great ends in game. Deacon Jones killed him in '67. But now in second year as regular, young Sam can handle Deacon or any other big stud. Surprising strength.

Left Guard

The quiet man is Glenn Ressler, who's finally found niche. Colts gave him shots at linebacker, tackle, center before he settled down last year. Must be doing something right because not many guys get to Colt QB's.

Edge: Jets

Right Guard

Danny Sullivan's a lesson in perseverance. Colts once released him, brought him back as taxi squadder. Succeeded great Jim Parker, and he's vastly under-rated. Looks tubby, but he can move ahead of backs on pull-outs.

Edge: Colts

Center

First part of season, Bill Curry divided time with vet Dick Szymanski, but now job's all his. And plays on all Colt special teams, too. Upstanding citizen who loses all his inhibitions on field. A fierce hitter.

Edge: Jets

Tally for offensive units is Colts 5, Jets 5, 1 even.

Right Halfback

Lenny Lyles taught Casius Clay 3 Rs back in Louisville: now his lessons consist of clouting respect into receivers. Couple of knocks and they're more worried about Lenny than precise pass routes.

Left Halfback

Zone defenses of Colts help guys like Bobby Boyd, who's bald, slow and not very big. But tough tackler. Spirited leader of secondary, opportunist who picked off eight passes this season. Probably smartest player on club.

Edge: Colts

Free Safety

A wunderkind is Rick Volk, who broke into unit as rookie year ago, already made All-Pro. A fine, rangy athlete. Tough tackler, good kick returner and strong nose for ball. Picked off six passes this year.

Edge: Colts

Strong Safety

Once top collegiate scorer, silent Jerry Logan's been Colt dependable for six seasons. Clutch performer, big enough to handle tight ends, quick enough to double on outside receivers. Generally unappreciated.

Edge: Jets

Right Cornerback

No linebacker in history has intercepted more passes of Jets. An original Titan. Larry Grantham's old man has intercepted more passes of Jets. An original Titan. They've been saying for nine seasons he's too small, but no one ever takes his job. Ability to be in right spot at all times is his forte.

Edge: Even

Left Cornerback

Don't get Mike Curtis hot. He'll take your head off. Former fullback, uses his quickness to tackle everything in sight. Firebrand also picks off clutch passes. He's going to be one
